

The Evolution of Planning Thought

The Evolution of Planning Thought

Round-table

ACSP 2014

Moderator:
Beatrix Haselsberger

Speakers:
Rachelle Alterman
John Forester
Cliff Hague
Charlie Hoch
Judith Innes
Peter Marcuse

WELCOME !!

Follow us at ... → <http://info.tuwien.ac.at/planning-thought> | @PlanningThought

The Evolution of Planning Thought

Follow us at ... → <http://info.tuwien.ac.at/planning-thought> | @PlanningThought

Rachelle Alterman:

“Systematic cross national learning is essential for planning to meet its global challenges.”

John Forester:

“Since someone has to do the work of actual planning, how do we theorize and realize real, practicable possibilities?”

Cliff Hague:

“Why does planning promise so much, but deliver so little?”

Charlie Hoch:

“Pragmatic spatial planning taps how people already make plans using democratic deliberation to improve their cognitive and social judgments about plans for the future of a place.”

Judith Innes:

“In a complex, changing and uncertain world planners must rely on the joint wisdom of collaborative rationality rather than on illusory ideas of prediction and control. ”

Peter Marcuse:

“Planning is a limited but key part of politics.”

Follow us at ... → <http://info.tuwien.ac.at/planning-thought> | @PlanningThought

The Evolution of Planning Thought

Further Information:

Homepage: <http://info.tuwien.ac.at/planning-thought>

Twitter: @PlanningThought

Mail: Beatrix.Haselsberger@tuwien.ac.at

Do not forget to watch our YouTube Video ...

Thank You!!!